

I find an individual painting language in the expression of the body. I focus on both identity and personal, emotional experiences. After refining the painting workshop oriented towards realism, I turned to geometric abstraction, which is invariably sensitive to deconstructed figurative / corporeal representations. From full stature to more conscious deformation.

I create a new view of the corporeality through close framing of the observed matter and make a deliberate selection using camera lens. In my painting I show strong interest in body parts, which I implement into the extensive compositions.
